OBSERVATIONS

early in the campaign and he didn't get enough votes to win a shotgun.

The election does establish the fact that the people of the city are sick and tired of the political ranting of The Times and The Examiner. Their ballots were eloquent on this point.

It is likewise obvious that the voters have confidence in the smaller community papers, whose publishers they know personally and whose ambition they know to be no more than to make a living by printing and circulating neighborhood news.

It takes politicians a long time to learn their lessons. It was the small press of the state that elected Friend Richardson. After that demonstration of the power of the small papers, one would think that the "powers" left open to Porter, whom they hoped most to defeat, the channel of the small press and he swears up that channel to victory.

The campaign now on between Porter and Bonell will find both candidates concentrating mighty efforts to win the support of the papers in Hollywood, Wilmington, San Pedro, Venice, Watts, the San Fernando Valley and such city neighborhood weeklies as the strong Southwest Topics, the West Adams Tribune and others.

THE legislature opens. Lobbyists employed by big interests meet at a hotel. They go over their program. Lumber lobbyists want Bill No. 420 passed. Power lobbyist wants Bill No. 330 killed. Rainfall lobbyist wants Bill No. 110 passed. Fishing interest lobbyist wants Bill No. 467 killed. And so on. They pool their interests. Each has "friends" in the House and Senate. Each works on his "friends" in the interest of his fellow lobbyist, who in turn work on their "friends" in his behalf.

The help-seeking citizen who has not the money to employ a high-powered and experienced lobbyist doesn't get to first base when he goes to Sacramento after essential legislation.

A well-known lobbyist once told me that with enough bonded liquor he could halt any bill in committee or get it recommended out.

Possibly he made it too strong but anyone who has contacted a State legislature at first hand will agree that he didn't overstate it much.

THE legislature votes on the floor, but the heavy work is done in committee. The individual or group wishing to encourage or halt legislation must meet with the committee to which the legislation has been referred. With the decision of the committee his bill stands or falls. If the bill isn't reported out it never comes to a vote. If it is reported out with the committee's recommendation that it be passed the chances are greatly in favor of its passage.

Committees meet often by night in hotel rooms. Here lobbyists see to it that they are entertained. These entertainments make business good for the bootlegging fraternity. Not all of the legislators drink. But enough of them do to make life rosy for the lobbying boys.

THE newspapers report the doings on the floor of the legislature. They report little about the activities of lobbyists. For these activities are not official and newspapers have to be mighty sure of their facts when they delve into unofficial news. Yet the business of the legislature is done not on the floor but in the committee rooms—and if committees want to meet privately they can do so and the press will never be the wiser.

IS legislation proposed in Sacramento that will do irreparable damage to your business? Then you had best fortify yourself with about a thousand dollars and go to Sacramento and hire an expert lobbyist to handle your case. He may spend your money for a deal-back at a roadside hotel. Or he may throw a fine dinner at a hotel. Or he may stage a party in a suite of rooms. But the chances are that he will halt the obnoxious legislation for you. It is too bad that this is so, but the fact remains that it is.

SOME legislators introduce bills which they know will find opposition from certain interests. They know that when the bill is proposed the lobbyist of those interests will pay them a call. Sometimes legislators have secured big jobs at fat salaries for killing bills which they themselves have proposed. More often they have been won by a series of jolly parties.

Occasionally points are won with committees on the plain basis of logic and decency. But only occasionally.

THE legislature at Sacramento is no exception. They are like that in almost every state. I covered the State legislature in Michigan for a string of Michigan papers one session and I know. It is not a pleasant commentary on our democracy.

Notice to the public

SUPPOSE you are today paying 50c a tube for your tooth paste (and there are many very good dentifrices selling today at that price).

Suppose, like most people, you buy about twelve tubes during a year. Now if you knew that you could buy as good a dentifrice as can be made and still save each year the price of 25 loaves of bread or 60 bars of soap or 40 pounds of sugar or a box of fine cigars—could you conscientiously fail to take advantage of such an opportunity?

That is exactly what you do when you buy Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. Figure it out for yourself.
